"THE MISLEADING LADY."
What will probably be the most notable comedy offering of the season will be "The Misleading Lady" which is to be presented at the Oliver theater on Wednesday night, Jan. 27.
"The Misleading Lady" contains a lesson for young women who tamper with the heartstrings of men under the guise of harmless flirtation, but the lesson goes only so far as to lead to interesting situations and no further. In this instance the man, stung by the woman's deceit, decides to try love-making as it is done in far-away Patagonia, or some such place. He tosses his overcoat over her head, catches her in his arms, bundles her into his automobile and drives to his shooting lodge in the Adirondacks. Other things happen with much speed at the lodge. A harmless lunatic, who has escaped from a neighboring sanitarium, is in possession of the lodge, so while the man is trying to convince the woman of his honest beliefs of love-making the lunatic is trying to convince both of them he is Napoleon Bonaparte. And then the young friends arrive to rescue her, but she refuses to be rescued.

"THE CANDY SHOP."
Girls, whirls and curls is one of the big features of "The Candy Shop" which will be at the Oliver Tuesday evening, Jan. 26, coming direct from a long run at the LaSalle opera house, Chicago, with Rock and Fulton heading the cast. Great care has been exercised in selecting the support of this great team, among them being J. J. Sullivan, Daphne Pollard, John Kearney, Florence Morrison, Ted Burns, Oscar Ragland, Bessie Franklin, Alfred Girard, Jane Grant, Ida Gold and others, ably assisted by a clever chorus.

In form "The Candy Shop" is a great deal on the order of musical comedy revues. It races along at breakneck speed typical of the most modern musical offerings, but even at this pace it is difficult to crowd into the three hours of its run the novelties, specialties and dazzling effects.

THE AUDITORIUM.

The Auditorium has a fine attraction today, Edmund Breeze in Alfred Sutro's famous drama, "The Walls of Jericho", originally produced in New York by James K. Hackett. The piece is an interesting one and ran for an entire year in New York and two years in London. Mr. Breeze is supported by a capable cast. "Romantic and Jolly", a Pathe animated cartoon comedy, and "Scenes in Southern Spain" will also be shown.

Tomorrow's bill includes "The Dervish", a modern two act drama featuring Marian Sals and William West. "The Courtship of the Cooks", an Edison farce comedy; the Pathe daily news with many interesting items including Billy Sunday working in Philadelphia, and Ernest Wilson speaking in Indianapolis; "Patsy's First Love", a Lubin comedy, and "The House of Silence", a Biograph drama.

Unreasonable jealousy of his wife's former suitor causes the husband to hate her so that they never speak. Her baby is born dumb, and realizing the terrible truth, the man turns her out of the house, blaming her for the misfortune. At a state institution she learns how to care for children afflicted like hers. The doctor, her former suitor, gives hope that the child may speak. In a scene of great power their reconciliation is effected through their child.

AT THE ORPHEUM.

Wyatt's Scotch Lads and Lassies, 11 bagpipers, singers, dancers and drummers, with a special stage setting and elaborate Highlander costumes, offer the feature act now being shown at the Orpheum. A number of attractive girls in pleasing Scotch songs and character dances add to the interest and the men in the act sing, dance and assist materially in keeping up the speed of the novelty performance. The bagpiping and drumming specialties are inspiring and would be more effective if placed at the close of the act.

"The Smoke Queen", a comedy playlet in three scenes, written by W. W. Dunkle, occupies the sketch position on the bill. Jimmie Cassidy plays a race track slang character and Vivian Longton as Niobe, an Egyptian queen, is stunningly costumed and adds greatly to the effectiveness of the act. The humor of the sketch depends greatly upon the contrast of the slang phrases and the Shakespearean English of the queen. Miss Longton introduces a pleasing selection, "The Garden of Allah", and the elaborate setting of the second scene is in good taste. It was well received at the opening performance.

Bob Hall, the impromptu entertainer, who was seen here a few weeks ago, returns with a new line of comedy, rhymes and patter. As he gets most of his material from the acts that precede him and the people in the audience his performance is always new. Sullivan and Mason, singing familiar songs entertainingly and talk amusingly. The Tyler St. Claire Trio of xylophonists and Marimba players open the show.

AT THE MAJESTIC.

The new bill at the Majestic which began Thursday is entitled "Fun in a Studio". Many comedy scenes are introduced and numerous laughable situations occur through the mistaken identity of the artists' models. Among the frequent musical selections are "Meet Me at the Church", sung with new comedy effects by Lora Lorraine; "I'm Glad My Wife's in Europe", sung by Eddie Burns; "Down at the Barbecue", by Eddie Wright; "I'm Looking for a Shady Tree", "When You Were a Tulip" and "It Takes a Little Rain With the Sunshine". New costumes for the chorus and original dances liven the show.

AT THE SURPRISE.

"The Mystery of the Throne Room" is shown at the Surprise today. A two reel Gold Seal drama written and played by Grace Cunard, Francis Ford and Harry Schumm in leading parts. An excellently presented light comedy with romantic snap in it. "Our Mutual Girl" serial No. 47 with Norma Phillips still playing the leading role.

AT THE LASALLE.

The feature film at the LaSalle today is "False Colors", written and produced by Lois Weber. The picture is thrilling and entertaining. As a young man concludes the performance of a new play in one of New York's leading theaters in 1895 he receives a message of the birth of his child and the death of his wife. He puts the child in care of his former housekeeper and lives on a lonely island. Their meeting years after is amusing and touching. The costumes and scenes are carried out in the style of the period and is played artistically, by Lois

AT THE COLONIAL.

Winifred Greenwood returns in a two reel drama of domestic life entitled "In Tune", which is featured at the Colonial theater today. The story deals with a stenographer of a popular novelist. He and his wife have an argument and the private secretary is more in tune with his temperamental moods. The story is dramatic in the extreme and splendidly presented. On the same program will be seen "Fatty's Jonah Day" produced by the Keystone players with the usual amusing effect.

"NEVER SAY DIE."

"Never Say Die", a farcical comedy in three acts, by William H. Post, will have its first presentation in this city at the Oliver theater next Friday and that the peer of all American comedians, Nat Goodwin, will make his first appearance in this locality in some years, in the character of Dionysius Woodbury, the title role makes an interesting combination for the amateurs of this section.

"Never Say Die" is serving Mr. Goodwin for his second year, last season having been one of the most prosperous of his long career.

ROME TO BE DESTROYED

ROME, Jan. 22.—Intense excitement was created among the ignorant and the lower classes Thursday by a rumor that Rome will be destroyed by an earthquake on Jan. 25. According to the rumor the vision of the destruction of the city was revealed in a dream. The rumor could not be traced to its source.

USE COCOANUT OIL FOR WASHING HAIR

If you want to keep your hair in good condition, the less soap you use the better.

Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and is very harmful. Just plain mulled coconut oil (which is pure and entirely greaseless), is much better than soap or anything else you can use for shampooing, as this can't possibly injure the hair.

Simply moisten your hair with water and rub it in. One or two teaspoonfuls will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather, and cleanses the hair and scalp thoroughly. The lather rinses out easily, and removes every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves it fine and silky, bright, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get mulled coconut oil at most any drug store. It is very cheap, and a few ounces is enough to last everyone in the family for months.
